PREFACE

THE present volume rounds out a period of twenty years of "American Book-Prices Current" and a series of the annual volumes form a quite imposing appearance upon the shelves. The appearance of the first volume, from both a bibliographical and typographical standpoint, has always been an eyesore to the present editor. It followed too closely the make-up and appearance of Mr. Slater's English compilation "Book-Prices Current." The arrangement was bad, and the printing was bad. The original circular said that it would be issued in four parts, but no copies were so issued. Although four hundred copies only were printed, the number of advance subscriptions was small. But immediately (as soon as book-buyers saw the book) the unsold balance was taken up and within a year was selling at two and three times the original subscription price.

L. S. LIVINGSTON.

Owing to failing health and bodily weakness, Mr. Livingston was unable to complete the preface to this twentieth volume of "American Book-Prices Current," which he has so ably edited since its beginning. He died on the morning of December 24th, 1914, at Cambridge, Mass., where he had gone to take up the position of librarian of the Harry Elkins Widener section of Harvard University Library. His contributions to bibliography and especially his latest work on the private press of Benjamin Franklin at Passy, France, published by the Grolier Club, have given him an assured place as one of the leading bibliographers in this country — it might almost be said in any country. It seemed best to print this fragment of his introduction rather than to have the volume appear without the customary contribution from his pen.

REVIEW OF THE SALES OF THE PAST YEAR

It is quite a tribute to the "American Book-Prices Current" that the English "Book-Prices Current" has this year adopted the alphabetical arrangement, which has for so many years been used in the American work. Since the issue of the first volume of "American Book-Prices Current" in 1895, there has been a marked change in the relative importance of the American auction market. The phenomenal success of the Hoe sale proved a fact, which had been in doubt up to that time, that important collections could be sold to the same if not better advantage in this market as in Europe. In the volume for 1895 Mr. Livingston wrote as follows: "The books most in favor with collectors in this country, much as in England, are early English literature, first editions of English and American authors, and the rarer Americana. For a few of the rarest and most esteemed volumes in each of these classes there seems to be no limit in price to which they may not attain. Prices which even five years ago would have been called exorbitant are to-day considered moderate. The demand exceeds the supply, and at each sale some buyer is prepared to pay, for a fine copy, a little more than the book has ever brought at any previous sale. This can be said of the rarest books only, for commoner books, and especially inferior copies, have not shown any marked increase in price."

The prices in the Hoe, Crane, and other sales, have shown such large advances over 1895 that it seems to demonstrate the fact that, in addition to the interest experienced in collecting, the making of such collections has an investment value which it is justifiable to take into account. The large increase in the autograph section of this volume, and the great increase in values shown in the Lambert and other sales, emphasizes the growing interest in this phase of collecting.

The collecting of rare books and manuscripts is not altogether the selfish pleasure which is sometimes attributed to it, for more than one collector known to the writer plans to leave his collection where it can be permanently accessible to the public for purposes of study and inspiration. Each of the important book centers, New York, Boston and Philadelphia, has had interesting sales during the past year, but this is especially true of New York and Philadelphia. In New York the Lambert sale, preëminent for its collections of Thackerayana and Lincolniana, easily takes the first place. But the Latta and Crane sales of Napoleonana, the Lossing sale of American historical manuscript material, the Marshall, Hubbard and Nelson sales of Americana, and Thacher sale of manuscripts, were all of interest and importance. In Philadelphia the Danforth sale of autographs was of marked importance, and at Boston there were a number of sales of Americana of decided interest, especially in the lines of local New England material and genealogy.

The house of Charles F. Heartman of New York has held several sales of minor importance during the year, which will be found duly recorded.

As in several of the previous volumes, the printer's copy for this volume has been prepared by Miss C. E. Dyett, and much of its excellence is due to her accurate and painstaking work.

The present volume contains records of 13,136 lots, selected from 138 catalogues describing some 117,327 lots. As it may come into the hands of some persons not familiar with the work, the following explanation of the abbreviations used and of the scheme of the work is reprinted from the earlier volumes.

The name of the author (or, in the case of anonymous books, the first word of the title) is set in black-face capitals.

Club or Press publications are (generally) under the Club or Press, and a few other books, such as anonymous histories and biographies, are entered under their subject. The titles of the various works of an author, printed in black-face lower case type, are arranged in alphabetical order. This is followed by the place where printed, the printer (in a few cases), the date, and the size of the volume. The first portion of the description is general and applies to all copies of the work. Following this general description is the specific description of the copy or copies of the book as sold, each lot beginning a new line. This specific description is made up as follows:

First. A description of the binding, the abbreviations being those which are universally used and understood.

Second. A statement as to the condition of the particular copy recorded, if on large paper, if with extra plates inserted, if from a famous library, etc.

Third. The name of the sale where the name was given on the catalogue. This does not mean in every case that the name as given is that of the owner of the book, as additions from other unannounced sources are often included with books of a known owner.

Fourth. Capital letter, indicating the name of the auctioneer under whose management the sale took place:

A. is the Anderson Auction Company and the Metropolitan Art Association.
B. is Charles F. Heartman.
G. is the American Art Association.
H. is Stan. V. Henkels.
L. is C. F. Libbie and Company.
M. is the Merwin Sales Company.

Fifth. The date of the sale. In case of sales of more than a single day's duration this date is that of the first day of the sale.

Sixth. The lot number in the original sale catalogue.

Seventh. The price realized. This is the price for the lot, not per volume.

I have fortunately been able to secure the services of Mr. Victor H. Paltsits, Keeper of Manuscripts in the New York Public Library (formerly State Historian of New York), as editor-in-chief of the succeeding volumes of this work. This will insure its continuation for the future on the same high plane of excellence that has distinguished it in the past.
